Arena Play Hits Stage July 23-27

Tickets are now available in Joseph Smith ticket office or the second summer BYU centre production, "There's Always Juliet," according to Dr. Ston R. Gledhill, director. Students and faculty members may obtain tickets at the Smith Building from 9 a.m. to noon each day by presenting their summer identity cards. Admission for one without activity cards is $0. During the afternoon rush, tickets may be obtained in the Dramatic Arts office, Adman House.

DESCRIBED by critics as "a wing comedy" and a "most weebie and ingratiating evening of theatre" the play will be sent in the Arena Theatre, 4 ASB, at 8:15 p.m. July 23. Only 100 seats are available each performance, so tickets should be obtained early to avoid disappointment.

Robert Hoffmans and Duane Huff featured as Leonora Perry and Dwight Houston, a young English lady and her American admirer, who go through a whirlwind courtship reminiscent of Romeo and Juliet, from which the play derives its title.

APPEARING in supporting roles are Andrija Filicoff as nurse, Leonora's maid, and Bert White as Peter, the "other man" in the romantic triangle. Costumes are under the supervision of Miss Peggy Announee who is acting as assistant director, and Charles Henson designed the set for the play.

Finance Dispute Scene Clears Up; UEA Allows Bids

One obstacle in the path of settlement of the Utah school finance dispute was cleared away Monday when Utah Education Association officials agreed to recommend that teachers negotiate for contracts for the 1963 - 64 school year.

The decision was announced in a statement which came after a two-hour closed meeting between Gov. George D. Clyde and John C. Evans, executive secretary, and Moroni L. Jensen, president, of the UEA.

THE MEETING Monday was called by Gov. Clyde to "clarify the current status of the school problem." It was the first meeting between Gov. Clyde and UEA officials since April, when Gov. Clyde said he would not meet with UEA officials again until they had something new to discuss.

The settlement recommendation is subject to approval by the UEA Board of Trustees, House of Delegates, and the general UEA membership.

Y Alum Receives Ambassador Post

A BYU graduate has recently been appointed by President John F. Kennedy as the first full-time United States ambassador to Kuwait.

Dr. Howard R. Cottam, a native of St. George and currently assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern and Asian Affairs will head the U.S. delegation in the important new nation which neighbors Saudi Arabia, and Iraq.

Dr. Cottam graduated from BYU in 1932 in social sciences. He taught at Pennsylvania State College, Ohio State University and the University of Wisconsin before joining the government in 1932 as an agricultural economist. He was appointed to his present post during the Eisenhower administration.

Kuwait is an oil rich country and exports 405 million barrels of oil a year through an American-British owned enterprise, Kuwait Oil Company.

4,000 Hikers Challenge Mt. Timpanogos Summit

Saturday evening will find approximately 4,000 weary but happy hikers with their feet in the most comfortable shoes they can find but with their head full of the beauties of nature that they have seen.

MOST of these 4,000 will have attended the impressive campfire program that will be held Friday at 8 p.m. at Aspen Grove. There, under the direction of Harold Goodman, those assembled will sing some old favorites and some that have grown out of the hike such as "Timpanogos, Mighty Timpanogos."

Next on the program will be a few variety numbers. They will be followed by Dr. Charles J. Hart, past Hike Director, who will award the honorary Timp Sticks to special people.

The finale of the program will be a presentation of the Legend of Timpanogos in dance form. The climax of the dance will be the lighting of a huge bonfire.

HIKERS will roll out early Saturday morning to begin their 14 mile round-trip. The hike officially begins at 4 a.m. and hikers are urged by this year's Hike Director, Israel Heaton to wait until this time to begin.

About 2,000 of those who begin the climb will make it to the summit. Those who do will receive an official Summit Club badge to prove to their friends that they made it.

FOR THOSE who still have enough energy to move Saturday night, the studentbody officers have arranged a "Descent Event." This will be in the form of a dance at Cannon Center which will start at 9 p.m. Admission will be free and official dress for the dance is "terradas and socks."

Students interested in riding in the studentbody officer sponsored bus should sign up in Cannon Center or 181 Student Service Center.

Italian Opera Features Melodies; Lacks Staging

by Joel Jusdosen

The Italian Opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana" presented by the BYU Opera Workshop Wednesday night gave the audience a memorable experience with a beautiful melody.

It contained well developed and haunting melodies which are not usually heard in such a short opera.

THE LEADS Larry Cull, Darlene Moore, Brenda Ann Mortenson, Larry Mueller, and Cynthia Williams carried the melodies very well.

However, it seemed as though more emphasis was placed on music than on staging, and as a result both were lacking in the spirit and beauty of the production. The chorus seemed embarrassed to be on stage; this was due to the fact that they did not have specific actions.

THE LEADS are more than adequate and give quality to the beautiful melodies of the opera, but diction is the major problem with this production. It is ex-

Saturday Eclipse To Be Seen When?

The partial phase of the solar eclipse will be visible at the following times Saturday, according to information received.

ALTHOUGH the times listed are for Salt Lake City, residents of Provo will be able to see the eclipse at times varying only a few seconds from the ones listed below.

The first contact will be at 12:36 p.m. (MST), maximum coverage with 51 percent of the sun covered will be at 2:06 p.m. and the last contact will be at 4:19 p.m. tremely difficult at times to understand the words and as a result the plot would be hard to understand for anyone not having a background in it.

The costumes add to the beauty of the production and give it a peacanary atmosphere.

Provo Zoning Laws Involve BYU Students

The Provo City Commission will issue a general statement in two weeks regarding enforcing of zoning laws to prevent abuse by BYU students, the Commission said Tuesday.

Action was taken Monday after a petition containing 125 names was received from homeowners in the University Gardens area of northwest Provo, according to Mayor Verl G. Dixon.

FRED FORBES, 181 E. 700 N. and Wilmer Tanner, 721 N. 1230 E. said the petition asked the city commission to enforce the R-3 zoning law.

The ordinance specifies that only four roomers or six "bachelor" renters could live in single dwelling houses. However, Mr. Forbes said that as many as 14 students were living in some dwellings.

Both men objected on the grounds that unsanitary conditions, over-parking and lack of supervision had turned residences into "barracks," and that houses in the area were depreciating.

Watch For...

The BYU Chess Club will hold its weekly meeting Thursday in 526 of the Library from 7:30 p.m.

Western Club's second annual Tump Limp dance will be held Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the Joseph Smith Ballroom and on the patio.

Quickies...

Enthusiastic workers are needed to work on decorations for the Summer Formal. Interested persons should contact Carole Porter at 374-1484 or Ext. 2818. The theme is "Gone With The Wind."

Emerald Lake House Provides Relief of 'Foot-Sore' Hungry Hikers

For foot-sore hikers who at Emerald Lake sometime Friday, the stone and steel 1200 feet from the summit, Timpanogos will be a sight.
The shelter is composed of a 10 ft. approximately 20 by 30 ft. according to Dr. Charles J. Hart, one of those who was concerned with its construction and rest room facilities. The shelter was designed to provide sanitation measures for the Timp Hike and to furnish a place for hikers caught out in bad weather, said Dr. Hart.

The shelter was completed in the summer of 1960, after taking two summers to build. The construction was a joint proposition between BYU, local governmental authorities and the U.S. Forestry Service. The plans and materials were furnished by Clarence Thornock, superintendent of the Uinta Forest Service. The Utah County Commission, the Provo Chamber of Commerce and private donors, of which BYU was one, contributed to the fund for the shelter's construction.

The building is made out of stone, and has cement flooring.
The roof is composed of 15 heavy steel sheets weighing in the neighborhood of 350 pounds apiece. It took a special machine to transport the steel plates up to Emerald Lake. The actual construction was "quite expensive" according to Dr. Hart.

Inside the main hall, there is a fireplace over which hangs a plaque telling when and by whom the shelter was erected.

Hungry hikers will be able to buy food at the concession inside this building.

The man on the stretcher forgot to follow the good advice which Israel Henton gives on hiking safely. Also, maybe he ignored the directions given him by members of the Jeep patrol.

This may look like an easy way to get back down that long 7 miles but the injuries sustained by careless hiking may last longer than just the trip down the mountain.
First aid measure can be received on the mountain from any member of the Jeep Patrol or from the Explorer Scouts in uniform.

At the end of the mile-long glacier sits the cold but beautiful Emerald Lake, so named because of its dark color. Although it is possible to see the glacier ringing its icy content into the lake and at times there are large chunks of ice still in the lake, swimmers can safely be observed taking a refreshing dip.
The surrounding area provides a rest stop for the hikers before they travel the last 1200 feet, straight up, to the summit. Rangers ask that people who use this place for rest, be especially careful with their litter, even this place could be ruined.

Rangers Prepare Trail

As the season's preparations for the annual Timp Hike increase, according to Ranger Donald, of the Pleasant Lake Ranger Station.
Hikers have been trying to clear the snow off the trails which will be at least three or four deep snow fields to cross western Aspen Grove and the trail from the summit of Timpanogos crosses many deep snow that the work has been unable to clean up said.

Height of the summit is 11,750 according to Ranger maps. Emerald Lake is 10,600 feet. Trails above Emerald Lake have not been cleared as extensively as the lower trails because of the hardships involved in getting work crews up to the higher elevations.

Students are asked to keep the area around Emerald Lake and the rest stop facilities there clean of waste paper, McDonald said that because of the number of hikers on the mountain Saturday, it is important that hikers not litter the area.

Sheriff's Patrol To Send Jeeps For Hike Aid

Don't cut that trail when you are taking the Timp Hike! If you do, you are liable to come face to face with the law and he will be dressed like a member of the Utah County Sheriff's Jeep Patrol.

About 20 members of this organization will be swarming around the mountain guarding and policing the trails according to their leader Vic Durham. He promises that his men will crack down on those who endanger others by leaving the trails to make new ones of their own.

Another important aspect of their job on the mountain will be first aid and rescue work. Durham stated that he hoped that the people would be very careful but that he and his men were ready to carry anyone off the mountain they would need to. Their group includes one doctor who plans to be there on Saturday.

If your injuries aren't that serious or if you can't find the doctor look for the 15 and 16 year old boys in Explorer Scout uniforms. They are members of Explorer Post No. 69 from the Springville 9th Ward. Their Post's specialty is first aid. So if you suffer from blisters, sunburn, bruises, cuts or insect bites look for the boys with the red service bands on their arms. They can take care of you.

Hike Rules Established For Safe Mountain Trek

"What ever your reasons are for making this hike," according to the Timpanogos Hike Committee, "you expect to return safely after a very enjoyable day."

To help students have an enjoyable and safe time on the Timp Hike, the committee has published several safety hints for hikers which will be distributed to students starting up the mountain.
"This is a dangerous mountain for the dare-devil," the committee further cautioned.

The first admonition for would-be Alpinists is to avoid taking chances. Students are encouraged to do their hiking during the day, and not during the night.

Also hikers are discouraged from getting on the snow banks before sun-up. Not only is the glacier dangerous when the rocks and uneven surface cannot be seen but, according to Israel Heston, Hike Director, the sliding is better after the sun has softened the top layer.

Hikers shouldn't go near the edge of snow banks, said the committee, because of the danger involved.

Students shouldn't blaze their own trails or risk rocks on the mountain. Sliding should be confined to the glacier, and students are discouraged from sliding in couples down the glacier.

Timp Hike badges will not be distributed before 6 a.m. or after 2:30 p.m. The Sheriff's Patrol will start clearing the mountain at 3 p.m., and students are urged to cooperate.

First Aid facilities will be provided by Explorer Scouts and members of the Utah County Sheriff's Jeep Patrol, who will be stationed at intervals along the trail.
Vic Durham leader of the Jeep Patrol, reports that every year they have to carry several hikers down the mountain on stretchers.

Beyond the Scenes ...

Comfort 'n Sturdiness Keynote Hike Clothing

by Linda Netherton

Pretting over what to wear on the Timp Hike beginning at 4:00 a.m. on July 20? Here are a few suggestions that may help. Stick to real sturdy shoes, shun away from sneakers and tennis shoes or you'll feel the worse for it later in the day.

LONG PANTS or levis take priority over bermudas and cut aways, bushes and weeds don't give away to bare knees.

A cool blouse or shirt is put to good use when old soles begin to radiate.

An over blouse or sweat shirt comes in handy when starting out in the cool morning air and can be worn tied around the waist later on in the day.

JUST AS important don't forget to spray yourself with mosquito repellent — they are looking forward to this hike as much as you are.

To prevent sunburns, be sure to use adequate suntan lotion on all exposed areas. Sunglasses should be included among your list of items to take along.

Face it, this is no place for glamour girls, stick strictly to the most basic comfortable clothing and you'll be guaranteed the fun of a life time.

From Timp Memories ...

1912 Hike Was Rougher

So you think it's rough starting out at 4:00 a.m. to hike up Timpanogos? Well, don't say so to anyone who made the hike in its early days.

Today, the Timp Hike is well-publicized and is generally conceded to be quite an achievement. In its early years, when there was no Summit Club and the major incentive for going was to enjoy the beauty of nature, it was even more of an accomplishment.

IN 1912, when the first Annual Timpanogos Hike took place, there was no good road to Aspen Grove. The hikers and their gear were transported to Vivian Park by train. From there, backboard wagons took them to Aspen Grove. Many times the hikers had to walk and carry their gear as the wagons negotiated nearly impassable roads.

Spending most of the day in transit, the party camped overnight at Aspen Grove. Early the next morning, the 22 hikers, including a few women, started their climb to the summit of Timpanogos.

SINCE THERE was no defined trail, going was very difficult. The climbers followed a stream through the forest all the way to the base of the mountain, then up the side of the glacier to the ridge on top of the mountain. From there, they made their way to the highest point of Timp. In the intervening half-century the Annual Timp Hike has grown steadily. In 1913, the men's ranks were swelled to 22, and the pre-hike camp program was initiated. Continued innovations and growing numbers of hikers have made it the largest event it is today.
